The authors classify the moduli spaces of all ten-line arrangements, producing a list of eighteen arrangements with disconnected moduli spaces. Some of these potential Zariski pairs can be discarded by a technique which uses combinatorial symmetry to produce a geometric reflection. Furthermore, a notion of distance is given for real arrangements with an application to fundamental groups. (Received September 11, 2013)