When teaching preservice teachers it is common to use other bases as a pedagogical tool to strengthen their understanding of place value and operations. Also, divisibility rules are explained. In this talk we show results when combining these topics by having students search for divisibility rules in other bases. (Received September 22, 2015)