We present an abstract framework for construction of Banach spaces of distributions from group representations. Spaces that can be described by this technique include the whole Banach-scale of Bergman spaces and Besov spaces on the light cone. We show that atomic decompositions can be constructed through sampling. (Received September 20, 2009)