

1096-A0-2078 Andrew G Bennett (bennett@math.ksu.edu). Does Technology Help Students?

Many years ago I started experimenting with using technology in my classes. This led me to ask the question of whether using technology was helping students learn. It took me years to realize that this is not in fact the correct question. I'll discuss the correct question and some initial work toward an answer in this talk. (Received September 17, 2013)