

1125-05-1017 Darren A Narayan, School of Mathematical Sciences, Rochester Institute of Technology,
Rochester, NY 14623. Puzzle type undergraduate projects in combinatorics and graph theory.

We present a series of puzzle type research problems from graph theory and combinatorics that are ideal for undergraduate research. The problems are variants of successful undergraduate research projects. The problems require little background and are suitable for students who have taken a course in discrete mathematics. (Received September 14, 2016)