The configuration space of knots can be modelled as an infinite network whose vertices are knot diagrams and edges are local moves on diagrams. This setting provides a topological framework to investigate on statistical properties of knotted biopolymers. (Received September 15, 2020)