30260. Writing Assignments with No Grading Required. Preliminary report.

This talk will present online writing assignments that are used in an Introductory Statistics course. Students write, submit, and peer review their essays online. It helps students in better understanding a topic by reading their peers' essays to see different viewpoints. There is no grading needed by the instructor. An example of assignments will be presented and the presentation will be concluded with student comments. (Received September 28, 2005)
