March 14th is usually during Spring Break at Slippery Rock University. However, on that date in 2005 classes were in session and so we were able to hold a Pi Day (3/14, get it?) celebration. In this talk, we cover the various activities we held. These include done by, for, and to students and faculty. I will also discuss the press release we put out and our future plans for celebration even if Pi Day is not available. (Received August 22, 2005)
