

1023-92-707

Jin Wang* (wang@math.duke.edu). A computational model of tumor therapy.

We present a computational model for the mathematical study of tumor growth. The model consists of numerical simulation for a moving boundary problem in a spherical domain. We compare the numerical results for different tumor treatments including virotherapy, radiotherapy and chemotherapy, and discuss how to further improve their efficacy. (Received September 20, 2006)